

Women in Tax - Purposeful Pursuits Sydney

1 CPD hour

The last 18 months have changed the way businesses and individuals interact with each other across industries and in personal relationships. It also changed the way clients, employers, and policymakers view tax practitioners, shining a light on the dedication and skill of our community and how critical the tax environment is to the way society operates. For many within the tax profession, it has meant a change in perspective as they reimagined their responsibilities, role in our community and career journey.

At this networking lunch, learn how a panel of experienced and inspiring tax professionals have responded to challenges in the way they work within the tax community. Discover:

- Changes in the way we work and interact with our colleagues, the plans we make for our careers, and our responsibilities and recognition in the tax community
- How challenges have helped us clarify our purpose and what it means to be a tax advisor and people leader in a progressive profession
- The opportunities, insights and inspirations creating clarity and purpose in our most meaningful pursuits
- And perhaps most importantly, how we take that drive and motivation – that purpose – and transform it into real-world impact for our clients, our community and ourselves.

Panellists:

- Jacqui Clarke, Jacqui Clarke Consulting
- Jeremy Hirschhorn, CTA, Australian Taxation Office
- Judy Sullivan, CTA, Judy Sullivan Consulting Pty Ltd
